IN DEDICATION...

We, the class of 1991, dedicate our yearbook to one of the most enthusiastic and dedicated teachers it Reading Memorial High School, Mr. Philip Vaccaro.

We believe that a persons' worth is measured by the good that he has done; the number of people whom he has influenced over the years. Mr. Vaccaro has been a positive influence on so many tudents both in and out of the classroom.

In the classroom, Mr. Vaccaro possesses two talents so necessary to be a good teacher. He inderstands us as students and is able to communicate with us on a level we understand. We uppreciate his philosophy and advice about life, and we will not forget all he has taught us. As owner of Reading Trophy and Shirt, he has a keen business sense which helps him to associate mathematics with real world situations.

We will not forget how Mr. Vaccaro's sense of humor brightened many dull days. He always had a good-natured remark to make us laugh. Rarely a day went by when he did not have a witty comment ike his famous "Chair-Up" to add to the class.

Mr. Vaccaro carried his enthusiasm for us far beyond the classroom. For many years he has been a dedicated and consistently inspirational boys varsity soccer coach. And, when at the beginning of our senior year, the class of 1991 became orphans and were advisor-less, he stepped in and took the job. So, we, the class of 1991, dedicate our book and our thoughts to Mr. Vaccaro. We may leave RMHS, but we take with us a great deal that he has given us. Thanks Mr. V.

AS TIME

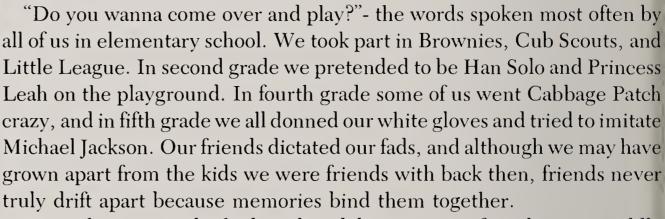

"I have many memories, and I am not sure what all of them mean, but I do know that whoever I am is what ever my memories have made me." John Keats

Memories and experiences have indeed created the broad array of personalities which compose the RMHS class of 1991. We have seen great changes in ourselves, each other, and our friends over the past twelve years. As we reflect upon the events that have brought us to this moment, we can't help but indulge ourselves in memories of yesterday.

From there we embarked on the adolescent part of our lives in Middle School. We were the first sixth grade class at the Middle Schools and we had once again found ourselves in the role of the little guys. In order to prove our maturity we attended those hot canteens in the Coolidge gym and rented the limos for the eigth grade dance.

GOES BY

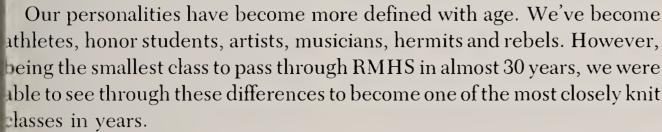

In this same quest for maturity we began to look beyond "cooties", inventing such catch phrases as TLF and 4-eva, true testaments of loyalty and neverending love.

And finally, there we were in High School! We had grown into the high school students that many of us had longed to become. In high school, we continued to collect tokens of our maturity-- licenses, senior passes, and diplomas. We found ourselves making new friends, getting jobs, embarking on adventures abroad. We traded in our white gloves for hairspray, our Cabbage Patch Kids for Chevy's. Our friends still influence our fashions, out we have become more individualistic- being able to think and work on our own.

On June 9, 1991, another chapter of our lives comes to a close. As we leave RMHS some of us intend to pursue a college education, some plan to go to work, and some still don't know where life is going to lead them. However, one thing we all know is that we will always hold these memories true to our hearts, and will come to cherish them more... as time goes by.

RETIREE

Five years ago, Reading Memorial High School started the school year with a new principal, Dr. Mark Piechota. Dr. Piechota came to RMHS from a position as assistant principal in Hudson, New Hampshire. Now, Dr. Piechota is again moving on to a new position as an assistant superintendent in the town of Ithaca, New York.

In these five years, Dr. Piechota has devoted his time and energy to running the school, trying to make the educational experience at RMHS a quality one. He has also concerned himself with bettering the landscape around the school by planting trees and organizing clean-up days for the campus.

Dr. Piechota has also shown great interest in his students' concerns about the school. This interest prompted him to establish a student input period, fifth period every Friday, when Dr. Piechota's office was open to any student who wanted to discuss a problem or concern about the school. This contact with our principal helped us to communicate what we felt were problems and to solve them to satisfaction of the administration and the students.

Dr. Piechota has always been willing to show his support of school athletics and drama, among other activities. He has been to many games and matches, from hockey to tennis, cheering on our teams. All of us at RMHS will miss Dr. Piechota, and we wish him great success at his new position in Ithaca.

HONORARY

We, the editors of Pioneer 1991, would like to institute what we hope will become a new tradition into the yearbook. On this page, we have selected four teachers who we believe deserve special recognition for their dedication to the fine art of teaching. These teachers stand out as being among the best at RMHS, for not only do they manage to teach in a professional and consistent manner, but continue to educate themselves in order to provide their students with a broader perspective.

For the past 35 years, Mr. Bond has been a staple in the English department at RMHS. Mr. Bond has been successful as an English teacher because he posesses a rare combination of both quality teaching ability and a love for the English language and its literature.

When Mr. Bond reviews a piece of literature with his students, he makes sure that they learn more than characters names and symbols. He reviews the history of the period in which the piece was written to provide the students with a broader frame of reference. He analyzes the linguistics of the piece, picking apart words and connotations. His obsession for iambic pentameter has become a trademark of him to his students, who, beforehand, never realized just how much of literature is involved in word and sentence structure.

As students walk down the hall and look into Mr. Bond's room, they usually find him sitting on a desk with the students, books spread out in front of him. However, Mr. Bond's classes are more than lectures. He gets involved with his students, teaching with patience and understanding. He also brings many outside influences into class. His background in drama allows him to read literature with the emotion it deserves.

Mr. Bond is also one of the most versatile teachers at RMHS, as his classes vary from Shakespeare to Intermediate Writing. Mr. Bond is truly one of RMHS's best kept secrets.

Mr. Swanson's presence is felt throughout the school. Whether a student of his or not, when people hear his name, they associate with it many adjectives. Among those are; loud, excited, and possesive of his books. Those who have had him would also say he is outgoing, dedicated, and a really great guy.

Once you have been a student of Mr. Swanson, you realize that he is not just a loud voice echoing through the hallways around his classroom. He is a tremendously dedicated teacher who possesses a deep love of history as well as for his students. He spends endless hours researching and preparing his material so he can present it to his students in a way that they will understand and remember every fact. This makes his classes even more enjoyable, for he wants us to know and love history as he does, so he puts every ounce of himself into each class. He becomes so involved in teaching that it is a common sight to see him throw a chair or trashcan, or to miss his chair when he sits down.

Mr. Swanson's love for his students does not end when he is no longer their teacher. He is genuinely interested in how our lives are going. He has great memories from teaching the class of 1991. "I loved you guys - you were a great class to teach," he often remarks to his former students. "We wanted Mr. Swanson to know that we love you, too!"

After attending Reading Memorial High School and then Northeastern University, Mrs. Maureen LeClaire was drawn back to Reading High to devote her career to furthering the physical education of all Reading's students.

For the past twenty - odd years, Mrs. LeClaire has been an inspirational and necessary part of our high school's athletic department. She is someone that the kids can turn to and talk to about almost anything. She is definately a friend as well as a teacher.

Mrs. LeClaire is the kind of teacher that motivates everyone to participate in gym and try their best. She is amazing to see when she demonstrates how to do different feats, like swinging from the ropes, scaling the wall, or jumping off the big pole outside. Mrs. LeClaire has high expectations of her students, but is never disappointed as long as someone gives it their all. She also spends a lot of time with the SEEM students, trying to ensure that they enjoy gym classes as much as the rest of the students.

Mrs. LeClaire has been an asset to the senior class outside the fieldhouse, too. She ensured the existence of our Junior Prom as she voluntarily chaperoned it. This is only one reason among many that we have honored Mrs. LeClaire on this page. We felt that this might begin to show our appreciation of her as a teacher, and as a person.

There are few people in this school who are unaware of who Mr. Kenney is. Those of us who have had him as a teacher see him as more than the Biology teacher with the wild hair. We know him as a teacher who tries to teach his subject with a mixture of humor and a keen understanding of his field.

The atmosphere in the classes is relaxed, more of a free discussion than an organized lesson. Many times Mr. Kenney has been known to turn on some Grateful Dead music during a lab class adding to the laid back attitude. Although the topics of conversations in class often strayed from the lesson plan, we all left the room each day having learned something about biology and life. Mr. Kenney's classes are made more interesting by hands-on learning techniques, which help us to gain information without having to read completely through those hefty Biology books. Mr. Kenney's favorite class to teach is field biology as this was what he majored in and he enjoys the subject immensely.

His interest in his students goes beyond the classroom. He is the advisor for the Science Team and the co-advisor of the National Honor Society. Our memories of his class are not only of the Biology facts that we have learned but of all the fun we had.

Frankie wants that ball

Some see football as a fall sport played in the cold weather, but those who play know that football begins in late July with Captain's practice and finishes pre-season with the infamous Double Sessions. The 1990 season began optimistically with the effort given by every player during our pre-season games, when we beat two strong teams, Lynn English and Framingham North, and a third against Wilmington. Our team's one loss was to Billerica in the Jamboree.

Despite valiant efforts from the players we just could not put all of it together to win a game. We have lost all of our games this season, however there were two good games, against Watertown and Belmont, where the Rockets could see victory, but in the end it was snatched away from us. At the time of this writing we have not played the Thanksgiving game at Stoneham, so all I can say is that I hope we win.

Win or lose, the best friends you will make are those on your football team, because with them you have traveled to hell and back.

Geee! I sure hope someone catches this!

Where's the other team?

With Mrs. Jarema as the coach, the field hockey team had its most successful season in the history of field hockey in Reading. The three seniors on the team were tri-captains Cathy Jarema, Becky Ruede, and Kristen Winslow. The team's record in the Middlesex League was 11-6-1, which qualified them for the Division I North tournament. For the first time, the Reading field hockey team won two tournament games. After going through penalty stroke elimination, they won an exciting game against Tewksbury and followed it by winning against Malden before being eliminated by Danvers, thus ending a great season. The team's high scorer was junior Jenn Bowdoin, who was an All-Star along with Cathy Jarema. Sophomore Kate Griesmer had an excellent season as goalie, and Kerry Reardon led the team on defense.

The RMHS boys varsity soccer team had some pretty big shoes to fill in 1990. After a dream season in 1989 that no one will ever forget (a third place finish in the Middlesex League, advancement to the MIAA Division 2 North semifinals, and an overall record of 12-6-3), the Rockets were faced with the incredible burden of doing it all over again. Although a shaky first half left the team in a rut at 3-4-2, the Rockets cleaned up their act and broke loose in the second half. With an emotional 2-1 come-from-behind victory over Woburn (deja-vu 1989) and a sweetly avenged 3-2 victory over Burlington on their home field, visions of a year ago danced in the Rockets' heads. But injuries to several key players late in the season resulted in the team narrowly missing a tournament birth for a second straight year with a commendable 8-8-2 record. Corey Welford, Matt Caraco, Craig Hanson, and Todd Stakem were all named to the 1990 Middlesex League All-Star team. In addition, senior Corey Welford was also voted onto the Eastern Massachusetts All-Star team for his outstanding play throughout the season.

Although the record may not show it, the Reading girls soccer team improved greatly this year. Led by captains Rebecca Sutherland, Lysa Stortz, Dawn Woodland, and Shannon Hembrough, as well as other seniors Chrissy Burke, Marybeth Griffin, Lisa DiCcco, and Kirsten Manville, the team worked hard and was able to play much tighter games against the eague's top teams, including Winchester, Burington, and Belmont. Reading continued its tradition his year by remaining unbeaten against Stoneham. Both games were tough but Reading pulled together and was able to hold Stoneham off for one more year. This season was not an easy one to get through, but all of the girls are to be commended for their hard work and dedication and for their eagerness to improve the zirls soecer program at Reading High.

The combination of dedicated runners and good coaching led the girls cross country team to finishing a solid third place in the Middlesex league. The team finished strong with an overall record of 6 wins and 3 losses. Two of these losses were hard fought one point contests. The league meet at the Woburn Country Club showed the team's solid hold on third place, by placing third there as well. The talent on this team is evidenced by the placing of juniors Katrina Bates and Lisa Memmolo on the league All-Star team. Distance running is an individual effort, yet the girls successful record shows the team's enthusiastic mutual support

The 1990—1991 Reading High varsity hockey team wrapped up its second consecutive Middlesex League Title and was ranked sixth among all Massachusetts high school hockey teams. They were selected to play in the Elite 8 Post Season Tournament, and played in the Boston Garden for the first time in four years.

The teams first line was centered by Paul Summer who emerged his senior year as a premier player in the Middlesex League. Paul's right wing was senior Bill Rooney, who, despite sitting out for almost half of the season, played an essential part in Reading's success. The left wing of this line was sophmore Ryan Golden. The second line was centered by Junior Middlesex League MVP, Mike Sullivan. His two wings were junior sniper JJ Moore, and sophmore Mike Dyment. The third line was centered by junior Mike Tomasello. Fran MeHugh was the right wing and was well known for his hard work and tremendous checks. The left wing for the third line was hard working junior Dean Fitzgerald. The fourth line was centered by junior Peter McHugh and his right wing was senior Dave MeLaughlin, who was a very versatile player, and the left wing was Jason Dooley, a tough player who worked very hard.

The defense was anchored by junior Dan Carrigan and senior captain Tom Quinn. Backing them up were two sets of top notch defensemen, junior Ed Hunter, junior Frank Davis, sophmore John Merchant, and freshman John Powers.

The goaltending was split between senior Mark Richards, who was known for his flashy saves, senior John Luleich, who was never beaten easily, and junior Adam DeAngelis, who provided the saves in many crucial situations.

The team was coached by Peter Doherty and Paul Bekkenhuis.

Corey on the move

Coach Bill Carroll and the Reading Rockets struggled through another difficult basket-ball season. The Rockets ended with 5 wins and 15 losses on the season to capture eighth place in the Middlesex League.

The Rockets were led by captains Rich Curley and Mike McSweeney. Returning seniors letterman Corey Welford and junior Matt Connelly both had excellent seasons. Junior Dennis Brearley anchored the team with his All Star play at center and should be a force to be reckoned with next year. The Rockets had great efforts off the bench from sophomore sensation Jim Murphy and junior Mike Driscoll, who missed the first half of the season with a broken foot. Although they had limited roles this season, juniors Doug Tribeau and Doug Crowley, better known as "The Doug Brothers", also showed great promise for next year. Other limited roles were filled by returning senior letterman Scott Losinger, senior Brian O'Halloran, and sophomores Duane Sigsburry and John Cignetti.

The first half of the season, Rocket fans had little to cheer about; the team went winless at home. The only bright spot was the stunning upset of the Watertown Red Raiders. During the second half of the season came out of their coffin to beat Woburn, Wakefield, Watertown (for the second time), and Stoneham. Although the season was a dissapointment in terms of wins and losses, the Rockets never lacked in effort. Coach Carroll and the rest of the team can find solace in the promising development of the younger players and the enthusiastic attitude of the team.

The 1990-1991 Boys Gymnastics season was the most productive season in a long time. Underclassmen were given the opportunity to gain experience while the seniors continued to excel. Most seniors expanded their horizons by competing in new events, including two new all around gymnasts Dan Ruth and Dan Hahn, who joined four-year all around Matt Beaulien.

The team finished third in the League, under Lincoln/Sudbury and Burlington, just missing first place by two points. The team had incredible success in the League meet, bringing home one-third of the medals. Matt Beaulieu took third on the high bar, fourth on the floor, and fifth in the all-around competition. Dan Halm came home with three medals of his own, placing first on the rings, sixth on the parallel bars, and sixth in the all-around. Jason Russo ended up third on both floor and vault. Dan Ruth swung his way to fourth place on both parallel bars and pommel horse. John Fitzgerald also earned a spot on pommel horse coming in third. Junior Tim Moynihan finished in fifth place on rings. Finally, Kevin Larrimore earned a fifth place spot on pommel horse.

Reading also finished sixth in the state meet, with Jason Russo placing sixth on floor and Dan Halm placing sixth on rings.

The 1990-91 season was a very successful one for the girls gymnastics team. Although ney finished sixth in the league, the team and coaches saw great improvements from the revious years last place position. The Rocketts, had their first win in two years when they eat Winehester, and they ended the season with a win against Wakefield. The team also eceived their highest score in two years, as well as many personal bests. The team's eniors, Lauren D'Addario, Andrea Lloy, Angela Garcia, Melissa Brown, Michelle inclair and Cajsa Holm, all showed great improvements in performance this year. Coaptain Lauren D'Addario had many great achievements, including breaking the school ecords for all around, floor exercise, bars, and the balance beam. Lauren was also the nly member of the team to make it to the state competition, where she competed on the alance beam. Although the team is losing six seniors, much of the teams strength is in the nderclassmen who show a lot of potential for a strong team next year.

Going for the gold

The boys swim team this year had a surprisingly successful season. In just its second year, the team finished in fourth place, compared with a last place finish their first year. Co-captain Krys Grabarek made the sectionals and the State Finals. Because of the strength that coach Dana Hodges has built into the program, the team was able to pull off victories against Melrose and Burlington and a surprising tie against Belmont. Seniors Joe Barletta, Dan Blodgett, Brad Lewis and Dan Dugan all had a good season and hopefully the team will continue to improve in the years to come.

After a rocky start, the staff of Pioneer '91 pulled together and finished this yearbook. Because we did not want to be known as the first ass at RMHS not to have a yearbook, we had to come up with new ways of running things. We would like to thank Mr. Donovan for pending long hours training us over the summer, Mrs. MacDonald for helping us start out, and especially Dr. Piechota for his nevereding support. We'd like to thank him for having faith in us and letting us proceed with this book.

Throughout the entire school year, Jamesway Studios has been to all of the Senior Class' major events. They have put up with all of our on-stop phone calls, and have had to work with us constantly. We appreciate all of their help, particularly Tom McHugh's for taking ost of our pictures. We're sorry you broke your leg for us, Tom!

But without the help of Mr. and Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Chase we would not have a yearbook. Mrs. Chase stayed with us from the eginning to the very end, and got us organized. (Something we desperately needed!) Mr. Richards saved our yearbook by volunteering be our advisor. And Mrs. Richards has been a great help along the way by giving her opinions, lending a helping hand, and even ringing us food.

This year was full of changes. One major change was that the parents played a large role in producing this yearbook. Parents worked de-by-side with the student staff on all aspects of production. There was always a parent in the office that we could turn to for help. We would also like to thank Guy Garon, our representative from the publisher. He was very helpful when we called with problems, ad very forgiving of our mistakes.

But most of all, we would like to thank the class of 1991 for supporting us through all our hard times. Without such a wonderful class, e yearbook would only be a bunch of faces, instead of being full of great memories.
